The DAILY NEWS editorial family enjoyed the hospitality of The Hotel Despland at dinner Sunday. Mine Host Despland certainly understands the art of hotel keeping and it is clear to the mind of the writer why The Despland has a "full house" at all times during the season. This popular hotel will remain open during April, a month longer than usual, and will no doubt enjoy a liberal patronage throughout the month.

Improvements to Waterways.

What is now for the most part a long but narrow strip of cultivatable land along the lower east coast, extending south from Fort Pierce is soon to be widened by a system of drainage which will reclaim vast quantities of rich lands which are now of little value, although the most fertile in the State. Through the energy and farsightedness of the East Coast Railway Company the various towns along the line of road will have an immense and fruitful back country made tributary feeders by means of the work which is now going on in some places and about to be commenced in others.

West Palm Beach, which has always been handicapped in its development, is rejoicing over the prospect of immediate work in draining Clear Lakes, a series of fresh water lakes that lie south of West Palm Beach. By the reclamation of these lands at least 30,000 acres of rich vegetable lands will be opened for cultivation.

The citizens are backing the efforts of the Model Land Company, which has the land department of the East Coast railway in its charge, and are aiding them to a certain extent in the great work. Already great progress has been made in the vicinity of Fort Pierce and the good effects of the drainage operations are already felt.

dertaken all along the coast and the plans of the company have often been confounded with the scheme to drain the Everglades. The Everglades proposition, however, is another matter and as the State is interested in their reclamation it will take legislative action and an appropriation to get this great work accomplished. When the plans of the company are all completed it is estimated that over twice the amount of truck lands now available will be added to the present area.

Deaf Persons Don't Get Seasick.

"Strange thing, but do you know that deaf persons never get seasick?" said an old surgeon in the employ of one of the transatlantic lines recently. "This was found out," he said, "when a whole class of deaf mutes went abroad some years ago, and, despite a particularly rough passage, none of them wanted to lie on the deck and beg somebody to leave them overboard."

"That's the seasick feeling, you know. A little investigation proved that the stomach nerves are mostly controlled by those of the ear, and that deaf persons are not nearly so liable to the nausea that comes from the rolling motion of a ship as are others."

"The experiment of saturating a ball of cotton with cocaine and thus dulling the hearing has been tried by ship surgeons since. It gives relief to those who dread any sort of a sea voyage; but, after all, the best way to do is to 'feed the fishes' and get over it."—Philadelphia Press.

Bizet's Red Ribbon.

Bizet, the author of the popular opera "Carmen," who died a month after its first production, was not at any time a lucky man. He was even decorated through a mistake, says a writer, "for his friends, presaging the failure of 'Carmen,' bombarded the minister before the production and begged a decoration for M. George Bizet. 'Bizet? asked the minister. 'Who is Bizet? 'A remarkable genius,' was the reply. 'who has already produced several extraordinarily fine works. Among them the most popular is perhaps 'L'Arlésienne.'" "L'Arlésienne?" interrupted the minister. "Why, it is a perfectly fascinating book. I read it with extreme pleasure. Tell your friends that the thing is done." The minister was not musical, but he had read a novel by Alphonse Daudet, and Bizet won his red ribbon."

Brilliant Suggestion.

Magazine Editor: Well, we've had articles by bridge jumpers, actors, yeggmen, senators, pugilists, doctors, detectives, porch climbers, lawyers, explorers and a lot more. I'm at the end of my string for something new. What would you suggest? Assistant Editor: How would it do to have an article by a professional author?—Pittsburg Post.

A Test of Love.

Among the Arabs of upper Egypt the youth who proposes for a girl must submit to a whipping at the hands of all her male relatives. "And," says a dry narrator, "if he wishes to be considered worth having he must receive the chastisement, which is sometimes exceedingly severe, with an expression of enjoyment." Not infrequently it is the maiden herself who imposes the test.

Spilled His Appetite.

Baron Graham once asked an epicure how many oysters he should eat in order to create a good appetite for dinner and was told to eat away until he became hungry. The baron, who never saw a joke, ate ten dozen and then plaintively remarked, "Pon my word, I don't think I am as hungry as when I began."

Candor.

"Good gracious!" exclaimed the mint sauce, "I should think you'd be ashamed to masquerade as 'spring lamb!'" "Well," replied the roast, "it does make me feel rather sheepish." Catholic Standard and Times.

An Idle Jest.

"Pa, what is an 'idle jest?'" "One that the newspapers haven't yet got hold of and worked to death."—Cleveland Leader.

"No fool was ever so foolish but some one thought him clever."

Walking Lizards.

Some lizards are able to walk on their hind legs, of which the most remarkable example is the frilled lizard of Australia, a powerful form, which attains a length of about three feet. Should danger threaten it scuttles off on its hind limbs with considerable speed for as far as thirty or forty feet in a half crouching attitude, with the fore limbs hanging down and the remarkable frill folded up.

Pretty Certain.

A well known millionaire was saying to his confidential clerk one day, "Now I've arranged those papers for my wife and children all right, so that if I die—"

"If you die?" interrupted the secretary. "Say when you die, there's no if about dying."

The Family Men.

I consider the family meal to be something much more sacred than merely an act of satisfying hunger. To me it is the meeting ground of all family joys and all family sympathies. —Professor Von Herkomer.
